William Simpson, MD – ORTHOPEDIC SURGEON

Dr. Simpson is a practicing, bilingual orthopedic surgeon. He specializes in joint surgery, foot surgery, hand surgery, and trauma. He approaches his patients with concern and is dedicated to their well-being.

Dr. Simpson received his bachelor's degree from UCLA in mathematics. He received a master's degree in neurophysiology from CSUDH. He received his medical degree from Kansas University Medical Center. He completed his general surgery internship and orthopedic residency at King-Drew Postgraduate Medical Center. He has practiced in the Southern California area since 1985.

For ten years, Dr. Simpson served as the chief physician for the United States Boxing Team. He has served as chief of orthopedic surgery and rehabilitation for numerous medical centers. Among other associations, he has been a member of the American Board of Forensic Examiners, American Board of Medical Examiners, American Association of Experts in Traumatic Stress, and American Association of Psychotherapy. Presently, Dr. Simpson manages a variety of injuries. These include injuries to the neck, shoulders, elbows, wrists, hands, hips, knees, ankles, and feet. He performs arthroscopic surgeries about the shoulders, wrists, knees, and ankles. He also performs microsurgery. When appropriate, he uses platelet-rich plasma injections, and stem cell injections.
